

RISKS PARTICULARLY ASSOCIATED WITH TRANSACTIONS IN CFDS UNDERLINED BY CRYPTOCURRENCIES

FXJet's clients can trade Contract for Difference (CFD) on Cryptocurrencies. All clients that wish to invest in CFDs on Cryptocurrencies must ensure to read the below document.

The trading of CFDs on Cryptocurrencies, are subject to substantial risks, additional to the general risks associates to transactions in CFDs. Cryptocurrencies are subject to a very high degree of uncertainty. Investors in CFDs on Cryptocurrencies are exposed to a number of additional risks that do not exist in more traditional investments. If the client is not prepared to accept these risks, the client should not trade CFDs. These risks are set out below, but this is not an exhaustive list:

-There are no specific EU regulatory provisions that would protect clients that are trading CFDs on Cryptocurrencies. There is no specific EU regulatory framework governing the trading on virtual currencies and/or trading on CFDs relating to virtual currencies and there is no official position from European authorities to determine whether the trading on CFDs relating to virtual currencies falls under paragraph 9, Section C, Annex 1 of Directive 2004/39/EU on markets in financial instruments ('MiFID'). The markets for Cryptocurrencies are still largely unregulated, making them more prone to possible market manipulation, and/or unauthorized access to digital wallets and cryptocurrency exchanges which could lead to a market crash.

- The trading of CFDs on Cryptocurrencies is not considered to be a covered service under the Investor Compensation Fund, therefore the Client will not be entitled to such protection for any services related to Cryptocurrency CFD trading that is being offered by FXJet, therefore the Company's Investor Compensation Fund Policy does not apply to clients trading CFDs on Cryptocurrencies.

-The prices of Cryptocurrencies as well as CFDs based on such prices are highly volatile, may fluctuate rapidly, widely, irrespective of the overall market conditions and may result in loss of all the invested capital over a short period of time.

-Cryptocurrency CFDs are not suitable and/or appropriate for all clients. Such products are very complex and as such clients must always make sure that they are fully aware and understand their specific characteristics and risks. Clients should not trade in such products if they don't have the necessary knowledge and expertise. All the clients should be aware of all the risks associated to trading on such products and seek advice and consultation from an independent financial advisor if questions arise, as FXJet does not provide such advice.

- Clients trading in such products have no rights to report to the Cyprus Financial Ombudsman in case of a dispute with the firm